Creating Intergenerational Church Experiences

Erin Wise (she/her) Director of Children's & Youth Ministries
Covenant Presbyterian Church

We recognize the importance and need to fully integrate children and youth into the life of the congregation. For them to come back to (or stay a part of) church as a young adult, they need to have something they feel is worth coming back to. We will talk about some best practices in helping family worship together, and helping kids and youth find their place and voice in worship. Ideas will be shared about the importance of intergenerational connections and how these meaningful experiences can be encouraged in the church. You don't need to be a part of a family to have a church family! Time will be included for questions, sharing, and brainstorming other great ways to make church truly intergenerational.
